Profile

Matthew provides his clients with straightforward, practical legal advice in all areas of corporate and commercial law with a focus on financial services and commercial real estate.

Matthew acts for financial institutions, private lenders and corporate borrowers on a variety of commercial financing transactions. He regularly advises clients on the purchase, sale, financing, leasing and development of commercial real estate and his experience allows him to draft and negotiate complex commercial contracts for business owners, including shareholder and partnership agreements, loan agreements, management and contractor agreements and co-ownership agreements.

Matthew frequently advises on the acquisition and disposition of shares and business assets and works with clients' financial advisors to complete corporate reorganizations and restructuring transactions. Matthew also provides general corporate and business guidance to a wide range of clients including entrepreneurs, established corporations and foreign companies looking to establish a business presence in Canada.
